

BACHELOR OF LAWS

Law is about relationships and our connections to each other. Our society, culture, and economy, our family ties, and our international allegiances all exist within a legal framework.

The Tohu Paetahi Ture—Bachelor of Laws (LLB) is a four-year undergraduate degree. Most students combine the LLB with another degree, and this will take a minimum of five years' study. As a graduate, you will contribute to every aspect of life in New Zealand, whether practising as a lawyer or working in business, the community, or government. You will be equipped to both uphold and challenge the principles that govern our daily lives.

The University's Te Kauhanganui Tātai Ture—Faculty of Law is housed in the historic Government Buildings. Its downtown location is in the hub of New Zealand lawmaking, opposite Parliament and close to the courts, research libraries, and the central business district. This unique environment attracts top academics and students from around the world.

Our Law students are active debaters and do well in international mooting and debating competitions. We teach Law by the Socratic method, in which you will be questioned on your set readings during lectures. This is ideal preparation for a career in law. We're ranked first for our proportion of A-ranked researchers and in the world's top 100 universities for Law (QS World University Rankings by subject, 2023). The University's Law School offers an education that will secure your future.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

A Law degree can lead to a range of careers. As a graduate, you'll be able to work in legal practice (in New Zealand and around the world), specialising in many areas, including commercial law, criminal law, family law, international law, litigation, and mediation.

There are opportunities in business, the community, the creative arts, government (including the Crown Law Office, the Department of Conservation, the Defence Force, and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade), and in universities as lecturers.

To be eligible for admission to the legal profession in New Zealand (to practise law), Law graduates must complete a practical professional legal studies course, often called 'profs'. Two organisations offer this training in New Zealand. The Faculty of Law can advise you about this requirement.

POSTGRADUATE STUDY

Graduates with an LLB often combine work with part-time study in a Master of Laws to specialise in a subject area of law. Also offered is a Graduate Certificate in Law, a flexible programme that can be undertaken for professional development purposes.

SCHOOL SUBJECTS

You should study subjects that you enjoy. These may be essay-based subjects or those that encourage analytical thinking such as languages, Art History, Classics, Economics, English, Geography, History, Mathematics, Music, and Physics.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Four years of full-time study if done as a single degree. About 80 percent of students enrol in a second degree with the LLB, which usually takes five and a half years to complete.

A total of 480 points is required:

- ▶ at least 90 points must be from non-Law courses chosen from any other first degree at the University
- ▶ three core courses at 100 level (usually in the first year): LAWS 121, LAWS 122, LAWS 123
- ▶ five core courses at 200 level: LAWS 211, LAWS 212, LAWS 213, LAWS 214, LAWS 297
- ▶ two core courses at 300 level: LAWS 301, LAWS 312
- ▶ 11 further LAWS courses at 300 level, including LAWS 334 Legal Ethics if you wish to apply for admission to the Bar.

First year

The first year consists of three LAWS courses, together with non-Law courses of your choice. Offered in the first trimester, LAWS 121 is open entry, subject to university admission criteria. A pass in LAWS 121 is a prerequisite for both LAWS 122 and LAWS 123.

Most first-year Law students begin another degree in their first year alongside their LLB. This means their non-Law points (see below and the next page) should be made up of courses required for the other degree. Use the relevant degree pages in this guide to find out what you need to include in your first-year programme. Details of particular courses and when they are taught are on the subjects and courses pages (from page 137).

Selection into second year

Selection into second-year Law is based on academic performance in the three 100-level LAWS courses. A B average over the three first-year LAWS courses is generally required.

Check the website for detailed selection criteria into second-year Law for first-year students, transferring students, or graduates, or if you require details on the Māori and Pasifika admissions process.

Selection into Honours

Each year, the top students who have completed at least four of the five 200-level courses may be invited to join the Honours programme. Although it shares many components with the LLB, the Bachelor of Laws with Honours (LLB(Hons)) is a separate undergraduate degree that will extend your research, writing, and analytical skills in a range of specialist areas.

“Law teaches you how to problem-solve more than anything else. How to break a problem down, see things from multiple perspectives, and where to go to find answers. These are completely invaluable skills, whether I decide to work in government, business, law, or another area entirely.”
