COURSE AIMS

This course will examine constitutional issues and broader political change in a number of Southeast Asian states. Students have the opportunity to gain a better understanding of political institutions and wider political trends in countries with very diverse systems of government, including Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, Burma, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia and Brunei.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, for each of the Southeast Asian countries covered by the course, students should have a good understanding of: the historical background to contemporary politics; the constitutional framework and political institutions; and the political parties and leading political personalities. Students should also gain insights into aspects of regional cooperation in Southeast Asia. The course will also seek to identify New Zealand's interests in Southeast Asia and its relations with the various Southeast Asian countries covered by the course. Finally, by the end of the course students will be expected to have a good understanding of the contents of the two required texts (see 'course readings').

COURSE CONTENT

The readings and lectures are designed to give students the opportunity to gain a basic understanding of the governments and political systems in the Southeast Asian countries covered by the course. The tutorials and essay assignments allow students to develop their understanding in their own way, based on discussion, critical analysis and independent research. The in-class tests will assess students' understanding of basic elements of Southeast Asian politics and comprehension of themes drawn from the two texts.

ASSESSMENT:

The course will be assessed on the following basis:

- two essays, each of at least 1,500 words (maximum 2,500 words), will count for 60% of the overall grade. Each essay will be worth 30%.

The first essay involves selection by students of an article dealing with some aspect of Southeast Asian politics, published either in an academic journal or a scholarly book. The purpose of the first essay is to give students the opportunity to read a work of appropriate academic scholarship on a topic relevant to the course and to prepare a critique of that article. The critique will need to identify the purpose(s) of the article; any theoretical or conceptual material used in the article; the research method employed by the author; the kinds of evidence used by the author in developing their analysis; and the overall conclusions of the author. The essay will also give students the opportunity to consider other ways (if any) that the topic of the article or book chapter could have been investigated (and alternative conclusions that might have been reached). The purpose of this essay assignment is to give students the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Asian politics and, secondly, to assist students in developing critical analytical skills in relation to the scholarly literature in political science and international relations. Note: each article or book chapter must be approved by Professor Levine prior to the essay being submitted. A copy of the article or book chapter needs to be submitted with the essay. Essays submitted on articles or book chapters that have not been approved will not be assessed. Students are encouraged to consult Professor Levine about their choice of article or book chapter; in any case students will be asked to indicate their choice by Tuesday 24 July 2007.

The first essay of 1,500 – 2,500 words is worth 30% of your overall grade and is due 5pm, Friday 10 August

The second essay involves selection by students of a research topic on some aspect of Southeast Asian politics. A one-paragraph statement of the research topic – what it is about; why it is significant; why it is worth investigating – needs to be submitted in order for approval of the topic to be given. Essays submitted on topics that have not been approved will not be assessed. This essay is an opportunity for students to select their own topic, one of personal interest, and carry out independent and original research on it. The purpose of this essay assignment is to give students the opportunity to gain a deeper understanding of some aspect of Southeast Asian politics; to give students greater experience in developing a brief research proposal; to give students greater experience in carrying out original research; and to provide students with greater experience in writing up their research findings. Students are encouraged to consult Professor Levine about their research paper topic; in any case students will be asked to indicate their choice of research paper topic, and to submit their one-paragraph statement, by Tuesday 18 September 2007.

The second essay of 1500 – 2,500 words is worth 30% of your overall grade and is due 5pm, Friday 5 October

- in-class test (50 minutes) (20%). This test will be held 10.00am, Friday 17 August 2007.
- in-class test (50 minutes) (20%). This test will be held 10.00am, Friday 12 October 2007.

These tests will be composed of essay and/or short-answer questions. As noted above, the purpose of the in-class tests is to assess students' understanding of basic elements of Southeast Asian politics and comprehension of themes drawn from the two texts.

Essays must be submitted by the due date. Extensions will be granted only to those who meet the University's aegrotat rules (e.g. students with a medical certificate, a family bereavement, or critical personal circumstances beyond their control). Late essays must be handed directly either to Professor Levine or to a Political Science and International Relations Programme Administrator who will record on the essays the date and time received.

MANDATORY COURSE REQUIREMENTS

To gain a pass in POLS 208 each student must submit the written work specified for this course, on or by the specified dates (subject to such provisions as are stated for late submission of work), and sit the two in-class tests.

PLEASE NOTE that Friday 19 October 2007 is the FINAL DATE on which any written work can be accepted by the Programme, since this is the date on which we must determine whether students have met the course requirements. This means that the provision for late submission with a penalty does not apply beyond this date. Permission to submit work after Friday 19 October 2007 must be sought in writing from the Head of the Political Science and International Relations Programme, and will only be granted for serious medical reasons (supported by medical certificate), or in case of serious personal crisis.

NB: A student who has obtained an overall mark of 50% or more, but failed to satisfy a mandatory requirement for a course, will receive a K grade for that course, while a course mark less than 50% will result in the appropriate fail grade (D, E or F).

PENALTIES

Students will be penalised for late submission of essays—a deduction of 5% for the first day late, and 2% per day thereafter, up to a maximum of 8 days. Work that is more than 8 days late can be accepted for mandatory course requirements but will not be marked. However, penalties may be waived if there are valid grounds, e.g., illness (presentation of a medical certificate will be necessary) or similar other contingencies. In such cases prior information will be necessary.

WORKLOAD

In accordance with Faculty Guidelines, this course has been constructed on the assumption that students will devote 15 hours per week to POLS 208. This includes two hours of lectures and one hour of tutorials per week.

AEGROTATS

Please note that under the revised Examination Statute (Sections 6-10) students may now apply for an aegrotat pass in respect of any item of assessment falling within the last three weeks before the day on which lectures cease. In the case of second trimester courses in 2007 the starting point for this period is Monday 24 September, 2007.

The following rules apply:

- where a student is not able to sit a test falling within these last three weeks because of illness or injury etc., an alternative test will be arranged where possible. If the student has completed in the view of the course supervisor, sufficient marked assessment relevant to the objectives of the course, an average mark may be offered. Where a student has an essay or other piece of assessment due in the last three weeks, and has a medical certificate or other appropriate documentation, the student will be given an extension.
- if none of the above is available to the student, e.g., if she/he has an ongoing illness, than an aegrotat will be considered. See Examination Statute 6-10 for a full explanation of the rules governing the provision of aegrotats in these circumstances.

GENERAL UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND STATUTES

Students should familiarise themselves with the University's policies and statutes, particularly the Assessment Statute, the Personal Courses of Study Statute, the Statute on Student Conduct and any statutes relating to the particular qualifications being studied; see the Victoria University Calendar available in hard copy or under 'About Victoria' on the VUW home page at www.vuw.ac.nz.

STUDENT AND STAFF CONDUCT

The Statute on Student Conduct together with the Policy on Staff Conduct ensure that members of the University community are able to work, learn, study and participate in the academic and social aspects of the University's life in an atmosphere of safety and respect. The Statute on Student Conduct contains information on what conduct is prohibited and what steps are to be taken if there is a complaint. For information about complaint procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct, contact the Facilitator and Disputes Advisor or refer to the statute on the VUW policy website at:

www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/studentconduct

The Policy on Staff Conduct can be found on the VUW website at:

www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/staffconduct

ACADEMIC GRIEVANCES

If you have any academic problems with your course you should talk to the tutor or lecturer concerned; class representatives may be able to help you. If you are not satisfied with the result of that meeting, see the Head of School or the relevant Associate Dean; VUWSA Education Coordinators are available to assist in this process. If, after trying the above channels, you are still unsatisfied, formal grievance procedures can be invoked. These are set out in the Academic Grievance Policy which is published on the VUW website at:

www.vuw.ac.nz/policy/academicgrievances

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY AND PLAGIARISM

Academic integrity is about honesty – put simply it means no cheating. All members of the University community are responsible for upholding academic integrity, which means staff and students are expected to behave honestly, fairly and with respect for others at all times.

Plagiarism is a form of cheating which undermines academic integrity. The University defines plagiarism as follows:

The presentation of the work of another person or other persons as if it were ones own, whether intended or not. This includes published or unpublished work, material on the Internet and the work of other students or staff.

Regarding essay writing, students often plagiarise by stealing another writer's grammatical structure. That is, you may not "plug" a few words into sentences when paraphrasing a secondary source. Poor paraphrasing, therefore, is a common mistake. In all cases, you must reference accurately the location of the source (whether printed, verbal or online) in which you found the information.

Plagiarism is prohibited at Victoria and is not worth the risk. Any enrolled student found guilty of plagiarism will be subject to disciplinary procedures under the Statute on Student Conduct and may be penalized severely. Consequences of being found guilty of plagiarism can include:

- an oral or written warning,
- cancellation of your mark for an assessment or a fail grade for the course,
- suspension from the course or the University.

Find out more about plagiarism, and how to avoid it, on the University's website:
www.vuw.ac.nz/home/studying/plagiarism.html

STUDENTS WITH IMPAIRMENTS (see Appendix 3 of the Assessment Handbook)

The University has a policy of reasonable accommodation of the needs of students with disabilities. The policy aims to give students with disabilities the same opportunity as other students to demonstrate their abilities. If you have a disability, impairment or chronic medical condition (temporary, permanent or recurring) that may impact on your ability to participate, learn and/or achieve in lectures and tutorials or in meeting the course requirements, please contact the course coordinator as early in the course as possible. Alternatively, you may wish to approach a Student Adviser from Disability Support Services (DSS) to discuss your individual needs and the available options and support on a confidential basis. DSS are located on Level 1, Robert Stout Building:

telephone: 463-6070                      email: disability@vuw.ac.nz

Please contact the Programme Administrator for the contact details for the Political Science & International Relations Programme Disability Liaison staff member.

STUDENT SUPPORT

Staff members at Victoria want students to have positive learning experiences at the University. Each faculty has a designated staff member who can either help you directly if your academic progress is causing you concern, or quickly put you in contact with someone who can. In the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences the support contact is Dr Allison Kirkman, Murphy Building, room 407.
