Prescription

A workshop course in writing for television, including sitcom, soap and series drama.

Course learning objectives (CLOs)

Students who pass this course will/should be able to:

1. Analyse how television is written and structured.
2. Create engaging narratives and characters in order to write a compelling television script in the standard format.
3. Understand and employ the basic tenets of television scriptwriting including story structure, character, plot and subplot, dialogue, humour, and subtext.

Teaching format

This course involves the practical writing and study of television. In the first half of the course, you will study the process of creating a television script, and you will also analyse different genres. Students will be given weekly analysis and writing exercises, some of which will be discussed and workshopped in class. In the second half of the course, students will present and workshop parts of their final folio. Students will be encouraged to take on constructive criticism from the workshop convenor and their fellow students as they rewrite for the final folio.

Punctuality

The workshops begin promptly. Students need to be seated in the workshop room a couple of minutes before the start.

Individual Meetings

In addition to the workshops, I would like to meet with each of you once during the trimester to discuss your folio content. This will be at a time convenient to both of us.

Mandatory course requirements

In addition to achieving an overall pass mark of 50% students must:

- Attend all workshops. It is unsatisfactory to run a workshop process with missing members. A single absence due to extenuating circumstances would usually be excused but further absences would make it unlikely that a pass for the course would be awarded.
- Complete all the prescribed exercises
- Contribute to workshop discussion
- Hand in the final folio on Monday 16 June 2014, with a second copy for the external examiner.
- Meet with the course convenor at least once to discuss work in progress. The time, location and duration of this meeting is by mutual agreement.

If these mandatory requirements are not met, the final folio may not be assessed and you would automatically fail the course.

Workload

It is difficult to assess the workload for this course. It is expected that you will work on your writing every day. Full-time undergraduates should expect to spend up to 200 hours across this course

(this figure includes the workshop hours). Some of this time will involve watching and analysing television programmes and reading television scripts.

Assessment

Assessment is based on the portfolio you submit at the end of the course. Participation in class during the trimester will be taken into consideration. A thoughtful response to your classmates' work is of paramount importance.

The final folio will include a commercial half-hour of a television script (between 20 and 30 pages) and a short (up to ten pages) series 'bible' that explains the concept and the main characters in the series which has been created. The script requirement equates to an entire episode of a sitcom, soap or half-hour drama, or half an episode of an hour-long drama. Students who choose to write a series drama have the option of submitting an entire (commercial hour) script as well as the series bible.

Two typewritten or printed copies of your final folio must be submitted by Monday 16 June 2014 to the IIML. Two examiners (the workshop convenor and one external examiner) will read each folio. After assessment is completed, one copy will be returned to you with your reports and one copy will be kept by the IIML in their archive.

CREW 351 is assessed on a pass/fail basis only. If you pass the course, you will receive Grade P (ungraded pass).

Submission and return of work

Your final folio should be submitted on Monday 16 June either to the Administration Office at the IIML (Room 402, 16 Waiteata Road), or at the folio hand-in function (location to be advised).

Once the examination process is complete, approximately one month after 16 June, one copy of your folio will be returned to you, along with the examiner reports.

Materials and equipment and/or additional expenses

Photocopying will be an additional expense for you. When your script for the final folio is being workshopped by the class, you will need to bring enough copies of each of your scripts, and hand them out the week before. In some cases students may prefer to simply be emailed scripts which they can read on laptops, etc.

Set texts

There is no set text for this course.

Recommended reading

Students are encouraged to read Story (Substance, structure, style, and the principles of screenwriting) by Robert McKee (Methuen), Adventures in the Screen Trade by William Goldman (Warner) and Screenplay (the foundations of screenwriting) by Syd Field (Dell). Other course materials will be provided by the convenor.

Class representative

The class representative provides a useful way to communicate feedback to the teaching staff during the course. A class representative will be selected at the first lecture of the course. Students may like to write the Class Rep's name and details in this box:
