Class times and locations

Workshops will take place in Room 102, 16 Waiteata Road (the workshop room), Kelburn Campus.

Emily Perkins workshops (Fiction): Thursdays 10am – 1pm
Emily Perkins reading programme: Wednesdays 12.30 – 2.30pm
Chris Price workshops (Poetry and Nonfiction): Tuesdays 1.30 – 4.30pm
Chris Price reading programme: Wednesdays 3 – 5 pm

From time to time, the reading programme meetings will be combined on Wednesdays 2-4pm (see Teaching Format below).

Each year we also try to offer at least two international masterclasses, timing dependent on the schedules of visiting writers. Details of masterclasses are announced as they are confirmed. Note that they are often scheduled outside of workshop hours.

Communication of additional information

Additional information or information on changes will be made available at workshop meetings, conveyed to students by email to all class members or distributed into student pigeonholes.

Course learning objectives (CLOs)

This course gives recognition to work in creative writing. Its aim is to develop the literary skills and imaginative capacity of emerging writers through a programme of folio supervision, writing workshops, and complementary reading. The MA does not limit itself to a single literary genre. Nor does it teach a specific set of predetermined skills; rather, it encourages each student to identify and articulate, as appropriate, their own distinctive voice as a writer. The MA in Creative Writing is a research degree, and by the end of the year each student is expected to complete a book-length work of literature, in publishable form and of publishable standard.

Teaching format

WORKSHOPS:

At workshops a range of exercise work is presented and discussed, and workshop members present for discussion folio work-in-progress.

The first few workshops will concentrate on weekly exercise pieces.

In the later part of the year, students will also be required to produce written commentaries on the work of other workshop members.

Unless we agree otherwise, there are no formal classes during university breaks: see attached meetings schedule.

READING PROGRAMME:

Where appropriate, we will run combined sessions. These will be held on Wednesday afternoons, 2.00–4.00 pm. Therefore, please keep the whole of Wednesday afternoon free.

Reading Programme meetings provide a forum for the discussion of craft and literary issues, as well as a number of texts from individual reading lists (each class member leads at least one meeting). They also provide a forum for guest visits.

There are no Reading Programme meetings during university breaks.

Mandatory course requirements

If you fail to meet these requirements your folio will not be assessed, and you will automatically fail. There are three requirements:

- you must attend and participate in the weekly workshop meeting
- you must meet Reading Programme requirements as described above, including attendance at the weekly meeting, and completion of the Reading Journal.
- you must submit your portfolio by the due date.

Workload

The MA is a full-time course. In practice, this means you should expect to spend about 40 hours a week on it.

Assessment

Assessment is based entirely on your submitted portfolio. You will receive a letter grade, and there is provision for the degree to be awarded with distinction or with merit. Two examiners – an external reader from the writing community and the Managing Editor of Victoria University Press will read the portfolio and make their recommendations. Your supervisor will also write a report. Copies of their written reports will be returned to you.

You must submit three copies of your folio or thesis by Tuesday 4 November 2014.

These should be in soft or temporary bindings. When examining is completed, copies will be returned to you, along with readers' reports. At this point you can make any necessary corrections.

Your Portfolio

This is the equivalent of an academic thesis. While you will be discussing your folio at the workshop meetings, you will also be assigned a portfolio supervisor, with whom you will have regular meetings. (These should average out at one hour per fortnight across the teaching year.) As against the diversity of views you are likely to meet in workshops, your supervisor provides the response of a single, continuing reader.

The recommended length of an MA thesis in a subject such as English Literature is up to 40,000 words. It is recognised, however, that the length of a Creative Writing portfolio will depend very much on the nature of each project. A fiction portfolio, for example, is likely to have a much larger word count, while a poetry portfolio will be shorter. This is a matter you should discuss with your supervisor, as well as with Chris Price or Emily Perkins.

Reading Journal

As part of your Reading Programme you are required to read extensively in an area related to your main writing project. You report on your Reading Programme by keeping a detailed, regular journal where you note your responses to the texts you have been reading, as much as possible in the light of your own writing.

The Reading Journal, which is not formally assessed, must be submitted by Friday, 12 September 2014.

Depositing Your Thesis

After you have received your readers' reports, you must then lodge THREE copies of your thesis: one softbound, one hardbound, and one electronic copy. The IIML will keep the softbound copy as part of its record of work done for the MA. The hardbound and electronic copies will be deposited in the University Library. The Library requirements for the depositing of theses can be found at: www.victoria.ac.nz/library/about/policies/theses.html

You must complete and sign an Availability of Thesis form at the time of deposit. If you plan to submit your thesis or a revised version of it to a publisher, we recommend that you choose to deposit the electronic thesis in the Library's Restricted Archive. Otherwise you may choose to make it freely available online in the Open Archive.

Human Ethics Regulations

If your research involves quoting directly from interviews with living people, you may need to seek approval from the Human Ethics Committee. If you are in doubt, talk first to your supervisor or workshop coordinator.

Masters Thesis Policy

The MA in Creative Writing is a distinctive research degree, with its own protocols and requirements. Broader information about Victoria's university-wide Masters thesis policy can be read at: www.victoria.ac.nz/fgr/policies-and-resources/#masters. The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences also has guidelines for Masters students at: www.victoria.ac.nz/fhss/study/postgraduate/ma and www.victoria.ac.nz/fhss/study/postgraduate/postgraduate-resources-and-links

Please note the following reporting responsibilities for Masters students:

Master's thesis students are now required to complete two progress reports: the first at the end of the third month of their enrolment, and the second at the end of the eighth month.

MA students are also required to submit (via the IIML) a research proposal within one calendar month of their initial enrolment. This may take the form of your project proposal as outlined in your application, or reflect any changes made to the project plan and agreed with your workshop supervisor.

Further information on these requirements will be available from your workshop supervisor.

Practical Matters

As well as the Workshop Room, there are three rooms set aside for students in the MA Creative Writing programme. Room 401 at 16 Waiteata Road contains a small library, student lockers and pigeonholes as well as an on-line Mac and PC. There are also two small writing rooms next to the IIML at 14 Waiteata Road, which you can book for private work. One is available at all times and the other every day except Wednesday and Friday. You will have key access to the buildings and rooms, so that you can come and go after hours. (You will need to see the IIML's administrators about keys and swipe cards.)

There is also a kitchen on the ground floor of the IIML. You are welcome to use anything here – fridge, microwave, stove – but please wash your dishes and clean up after yourself.

Printing and copying arrangements: read the document titled 'Information for MA Students 2014' in your course information folder, then check with the IIML's administrators.

We are building a small library of contemporary writing in the Postgraduate Room (Room 401). Please use this library as a resource (books may be borrowed on a card system; journals must be read in the library only). We subscribe to a range of contemporary journals, while a number of current NZ literary magazines – Landfall, New Zealand Books, Sport – have generously donated gift subscriptions. Donations of your own future publications will of course be very welcome!

Writers DVDs

We have a significant resource in the Lannan Writers DVD Collection, which features readings and conversations with many of the world's leading writers. The DVDs may not be borrowed, but we have booked the Workshop Room on Fridays from 2.00 p.m. should you wish to view these DVDs. (Certain Fridays will not be available due to the PhD programme's requirements – please check with the office.) These DVD sessions are not a formal requirement but offer you a chance to see a favourite writer in performance or to discover new writers.

There is also a collection of New Zealand and international poetry recordings on CD available to listen to in the Workshop Room. They may not be borrowed.

Other Meetings and Events

The Workshop and Reading Programme make up the MA's formal requirements. Informal meetings between students are another way of developing networks and skills.

The IIML also runs a series of writer events – "Writers on Mondays" usually held at lunchtimes in the second trimester. The venue for this year is Te Papa. Attendance at these events, where invited writers read and speak about their work, is strongly encouraged. Students will also have the opportunity to take part in this series as writers in September.

Masterclasses

In the past few years we have presented international masterclasses as part of the MA programme. Previous visiting writers have included Richard Ford, Eliot Weinberger, Lavinia Greenlaw, Michael Palmer, Richard Powers, Christopher Reid, Brian Castro, Glyn Maxwell, David Vann, Joy Harjo, Teju Cole and Lee Gutkind. There will be a masterclass with Jamaican poet/fiction writer Kei Miller on 11 March (during Writers Week), and Scottish writer Janice Galloway will deliver a masterclass in April (see schedule attached for dates and times).

Newsletter

The IIML produces an occasional newsletter that includes information about literary events and launches (particularly in Wellington), new books by graduates, writing competitions and other book-related goings-on. To receive the newsletter email modernletters@vuw.ac.nz with SUBSCRIBE in the subject line. (Please note that we will assume that you are receiving the newsletter, rather than repeating the information it contains during the workshops.)

Prizes and Scholarships

The Adam Foundation Prize in Creative Writing is awarded to the best folio submitted by an MA student in any one year. Recipients to date have been Catherine Chidgey (1997, for In a Fishbone Church), William Brandt (1998, for Alpha Male), Tim Corballis (2000, for Below), Paula Morris (2001, for Queen of Beauty), Cliff Fell (2002, for The Adulterer's Bible), Josh Greenberg (2003, for A Man Who Eats the Heart), Emily Dobson (2004, for A Box of Bees), Michele Amas (2005, for The Angle of Clouds), Anna Horsley (now Anna Taylor, 2006, for Going Under), Eleanor Catton (2007, for The Rehearsal), Lynn Jenner (2008, for Dear Sweet Harry), Ashleigh Young (2009, for Can You Tolerate This?), Rayne Cockburn (2010, for Someplace for Boys), Hera Lindsay Bird (2011, for And Together We Fight Crime), Kerry Donovan-Brown (2012, for Lamplighter) and Helena Wiśniewska Brow (2013, for Give Us This Day). Copies of these and all the other completed MA theses are available for reading in the VUW Library.

Created in 2006, the $3000 Biggs Poetry Scholarship, which seeks to recognise the potential of a writer, has been awarded to Amy Brown (2006), Joan Fleming (2007), Louise Wallace (2008), Bill Nelson (2009), Aleksandra Lane (2010), Rachel Sawaya (2011), Zarah Butcher-McGunnigle (2012) and Morgan Bach (2013).

There are also four post-MA project scholarships awarded to allow selected students to work towards publication of their folios. These are valued at $4000 each.
