

Evolution and Equilibrium: Copyright this Century

15 – 16 November 2012

The digital and Internet age has inspired many questions about the role and function of copyright. Internationally copyright has progressively increased its scope of protection, over new technology and modes of distribution. Yet many copyright owners express dissatisfaction and consider that the system is not working for them. Many users of copyright material, and even some owners, consider that copyright gives too much protection and that copyright owners want too much. The issues and consequent debate are complex. The aim of this conference is to advance the dialogue on how copyright might evolve in the 21st century.
